

Today at FrancoFolies

Somewhere between Nanette and Marjo is Andree Watters, Quebec's most unpretentious female rocker, with a penchant for riding ragged edges. She plays at L'Aire Ford Focus at 9 and 11 p.m. Another promising free concert joins two crafty alt-French tunesmiths, Ben Ricour and Emily Loizeau, at Le Monde Pop Desjardins stage at 9 p.m. Bazbaz, also from France, mixes reggae, blues and rumba to melancholic effect at 6 p.m. at L'Aire Ford Focus. On a slow night indoors, the boogaloo-funk of the Colombian-Quebec combo Roberto Lopez Project is worth dancing to at Le Monde multiculturel Hydro-Quebec, at 7 and 10 p.m.
